GTR's annual Commodity Trade Finance Conference, organized in partnership with the Lugano Commodity Trading Association (LCTA), returns to Lugano for its fourth year on September 26.

Switzerland's advantageous geographical position, political balance and deeply-rooted banking tradition outline the perfect environment for the country's thriving economy and commodity trading sectors. Despite ever more challenges faced by the global trading market, new opportunities are also arising, be it the adoption of financial technology and blockchain, innovation in the insurance sector or a reevaluation of key commodities.

Targeting an even more diverse crowd, the 2018 event will act as the ultimate networking platform for the commodity trade finance community, with experts from commodity trading houses, global corporates, financiers and service providers all in attendance and all ready to give unique insights and advice.

With audience participation at the forefront of proceedings, the conference will provide an ideal environment for lively debate, covering a broad range of issues and defining the future of commodity trade.
